

Graduate School of Dentistry

Based on Osaka University Admission Policies, the Graduate School of Dentistry welcomes individuals possessing a spirit of inquiry into high levels of science focusing on the mouth, jaw, and face, from basic research in life sciences to advanced diagnosis and treatment methods as well as a strong desire to become a next-generation leader in dentistry research and dentistry medical treatment.

The Graduate School of Dentistry seeks individuals noted below:

1. Individuals who love dental medicine and life sciences and make a serious effort to conduct dental treatment with a sense of mission.
2. Individuals possessing acumen and the psychological strength necessary for acquiring advanced knowledge and techniques.
3. Individuals possessing drive, curiosity, and original ideas.
4. Individuals possessing a spirit of self-reliance, a desire to improve themselves and a sense of purpose
5. Individuals wanting to communicate actively with the world
6. Individuals searching for their career path and the person they'd like to become

In order to accept people with different backgrounds from Japan and abroad, the school conducts general screening, screening for working people, and screening for international students several times and assesses the above qualities through screening consisting of an achievement test and an oral examination.